The position of private banker affords you the privilage of acting in a capacity of an attorney, one who fights for the exercise of Constitutionally protected rights. As an advocate for peace, it is our duty to uphold our coveated basic rights as sovereign men and women within the confides of a republic, a federation of states, maskerading as a corporation known as The United States of America, one governed by Congress, and not the Constitution. Our job is to restore the republic, by defending the Constitution on principle at every occurance of its trespass. This journey begins when you educate and exercise your inalienable rights as endowed upon you by the creator. These forces which have polarized and fomented division amongst men, can now be dissolved, as we all join together to resist tyranny, communism, and any form of oppression of any people, foreign or domestic nations.

Without pointing out any specific group particularly vested in our current debacle, let us all humble ourselves, and resist on the front known as our daily life. Which stands as victim to an ever over reaching government, which acts as a force of sedition to We the People, who are the principle, alleged benefactors as we would be named in the Constitution, however, now at the mercy of our government whose positions are filled with foreign agents, acting in the interest of their perspective nations. It seems that nothing has changed on this front since its inception.

Our good friend GH has provided some suggestions as to how to utilize the very same codes designed to subdue you, to your favor. Indicated below are some codes, their location in applicable law, and its potential implications in use, or the lack thereof. Remember, alot of laws are written and only apply because your consent is silent to its use, unless you revoke the consent. What fuckery, right? It seems that would be appropriate to teach in school, of all the things that apply to you, unless you revoke them. How's them rights working out for ya? Anyways, our job is education, so learn, or perish!

Interpretation:

Your not a citizen of a nation, but collateral to a de facto corporation masquerading as a lawful government, but is actually run by foreign agents, completely illegally, hence why they use us to wipe their ass with, then laugh while we die in their blood libels.

Interpretation:

This would be defining its use within the context of trade shows. But it goes to show you how far they go in hiding that you are just collateral to a ponzi scheme, which is backed by your labor via a variety of bonds and other colorful instruments of law (scams to F you out of your hard earned money, like taxes etc)

Federal reserve note, aka "cash", are not your problem, but the problem (obligation) of the United States, and not you. So, when your indorsing for credit, or some other agreement like a note, your not obligated to pay for anything. It's all their problem not yours. Your indorsement sets forth the process of everyone getting paid in this transaction including you, and you receiving the property of the note or loan, but without recourse. Cock suckers want to make you pay for some shit that your not obligated to pay. How about that for some shit?
